

I'm writing in opposition of the proposed rule to expand LPFM stations, which might affect the future of some FM broadcasts. K-LOVE is a station that serves my local community. If K-Love were to be displaced by an LPFM broadcaster the local community would suffer because hundreds of citizens might lose access to the life-changing and up-lifting programming that K-LOVE provides. I have listened to K-LOVE for several years, during which time it has offered an alternative to the advertisement and profit driven broadcasts of most stations. The music is wholesome and family friendly. K-LOVE offers thousands of children access to a positive message that mainstream broadcasts don't offer. I beleieve it is in the public interest that K-Love continue to broadcast on the existing FM translator service without interruption by a changed FCC policy.

Thank You
